THE WILLIAMS-POPPLETON CASE.

Action for Malpractice.

CHARGE OF JUDGE UPTON TO THE JURY.

Lyman Williams vs. Edgar Poppleton.

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: In this case I am required to reduce the charge to writing, and will proceed to read to you such instructions as to the law, as seems necessary to a proper determination of the case.

Each party has the right to reduce to writing such instructions as the party deems advisable, and request the court to give to the jury the instructions so asked. And if the court finds them correct in point of law and applicable to the case, it is the duty of the court to instruct accordingly. In this case prepared instructions have been presented by counsel on many points, and such of them as I find to be correct and pertinent are included in this charge. This necessarily must cause considerable repetition in stating some of the rules of law applicable to the case.

It is a rule of law that any material fact stated in the complaint and not denied in the answer is admitted by the defendant, and any such fact stated in the answer and not denied by the replication is admitted by the plaintiff to be true. In regard to any such facts so admitted in the pleadings, neither party is at liberty on the trial to gainsay or contradict.

It is the duty of the court in this, as in all cases, to construe the pleadings and to determine what the issues are, or in other words, what is admitted and what is in dispute between the parties.

In this case what is said about the name, nature and character of the injury is not denied, and is therefore to be taken as true. It is, consequently, admitted in this case, both by the plaintiff and defendant, that the injury which the defendant was called upon to treat was of the kind which the answer declared it to be.

It is important that you understand clearly what is complained of by the plaintiff, and what is set up as a defense, in order that you may confine your deliberations to the points involved, and apply the evidence to questions that are in controversy.

The plaintiff complains that the defendant failed to treat the plaintiff in a skillful and proper manner for the injuries he had received, that the defendant, through ignorance or neglect, failed to furnish proper support to the foot of plaintiff, so that the bones of the ankle and leg could or would unite, and that the defendant improperly removed the support that had been placed under and to plaintiff's foot to keep the same in position.

The defendant, by his answer, denies the alleged neglect, sets up a description of the injury, avers that he treated the case with skill and care, and as an individual defense sets up that he has been released.

It is important to ascertain and have in mind correct rules in regard to the duties and obligations of surgeons when employed professionally.

In cases like this the court and jury do not undertake to determine what is the best mode of treatment, or to decide questions of medical science upon which surgeons differ among themselves.

If the treatment is according to a recognized system of surgery, it is not for the court or jury to undertake to determine whether that system is the best among the many that may be adopted by different branches of the medical profession. It is sufficient if the practitioner follow any of the known and recognized systems.

A physician or surgeon is never considered to have warranted a cure unless it is expressly proved that he contracted to warrant a cure.

And he cannot be held responsible for mere want of success. There must also be a want of ordinary care, or of ordinary skill, or a failure to exercise his best judgment.

By ordinary skill is meant such skill as men in the same profession usually possess. It would be contrary to reason to hold that every professional man was bound to possess remarkable or unusual talents. In order to hold the defendant liable in damages it must be satisfactorily shown by the evidence, not only that he failed to treat the case properly, but also that the damage which the plaintiff complains of is attributable either to unskilful or negligent treatment.

The learned professions, like other avocations, are open to every person who sees proper to prepare himself to pursue them as an avocation.

When a young man sees fit to enter his name as a student of medicine and surgery, there is no rule requiring that he should be possessed of uncommon talents. It is a profession upon which every youth of common ability may enter as a student with a view to make it the business of his life, and it is not the intention of the law, nor would it be consistent with human reason to require that every aspirant for professional honors should bring to the labor remarkable and uncommon natural talent. The education and choice of profession or occupation of most individuals is to a great extent influenced and directed by parents or others who have their care in childhood, make the choice or give the impressions and bias that lead to the particular trade or profession before the individual arrives at years of discretion. This choice is often made at too early an age to enable any one to determine whether or not the individual possesses great natural talent or great aptitude to that particular calling. But the law which opens every trade and profession to each one of us, is intended for the protection of all.

It would be equally unjust, and contrary of human reason, to require of every physician extraordinary talent and extraordinary natural ability and judgment, as it would to refuse to call the physician to an account who neglected to treat a case with that care man ordinarily bestows in the business of life, and according to the best judgment his Creator has given him. The law does not go to either extreme. The law is intended for the protection of all both physician and the patient.

The faithful, honest and conscientious physician is called upon to administer to every kind and class of men, the high and low, the rich and the poor, the virtuous and the depraved. Common humanity demands that the sick and distressed should be administered to, whatever may be their circumstances. The physician is obliged by his calling constantly to enter the abodes of others and frequently to undertake difficult cases and to perform critical operations in the presence of those who are ignorant and credulous.

He is liable to have his acts misjudged, his motives suspected and the truth colored or distorted even where there are no dishonest intentions on the part of his accusers. And from the very nature of his duty he is constantly liable to be called upon to perform the most critical operations in the presence of persons united in interest and sympathy, by the ties of family, where he may be the only witness in his own behalf.

It is the intention of the law to protect the physician or surgeon as well as the patient, and to protect the patient as well as the physician or surgeon. If the surgeon is grossly ignorant of his profession or knowing his duty, grossly neglects it, he should be held to the full rigor of the law and should suffer the full consequences of imposing himself upon a confiding public. His trust and responsibilities are of the highest and gravest character and he is bound to a faithful discharge of the trust. In case of doubt he is bound to use the best of his judgment, but the surgeon is not bound to cure his patient. Neither is a surgeon responsible for an error of judgment, if the expediency of the remedy, or operation is involved in doubt, if he acts with ordinary care, skill and diligence.

A fracture or dislocation of both combined, may be so complicated that no human skill can restore it. Or the patient may by disregarding the surgeon's directions impair the effect of the best concerted measures. The surgeon does not deal with inanimate or insensate matter like the stone mason or brick layer, who can choose their materials and adjust them according to mathematical lines, but he has a suffering human being to treat, a nervous system to tranquilize, and an excited will to regulate and control. Where a surgeon undertakes to treat a fractured limb, he has not only to apply the known facts, and theoretical knowledge of his science, but he may have to contend with very many powerful and hidden influences, such as want of vital force, habit of life, hereditary disease, the state of the climate or the mental state of his patient may often render the management of a surgical case difficult, doubtful and dangerous. It may have greater influence in the result than all the surgeon may be able to accomplish, even with the best skill and care.

From these and like considerations arise those cases and conditions so frequently alluded to by medical witnesses in the course of this trial, in which the surgeon is called upon to exercise his best judgment, and in which he is justified in changing the mode of treatment from time to time as the nature and exigencies of the case shall indicate a necessity, or the propriety of a change.

This is not, as was ingeniously said in the course of the argument, establishing a rule "that every surgeon must be the judge in his own particular case," but it is applying a necessary and well established rule that in cases of doubt as to what is the best course to be pursued it is the duty of the surgeon to exercise his best judgment.

And it follows as a consequence of this duty, that when the skillful and careful surgeon does exercise his best judgment, he ought not to be, and cannot be, held responsible for a failure of success.

The fact that medical cases arise in which the practitioner is compelled to rely on his own judgment makes such a rule necessary.

If he is qualified to act and faithful to the great trusts confided to him he deserves the full protection the rules of law afford him.

On the other hand if he is grossly ignorant or fails to use ordinary care in the treatment of the case he has in charge, it is most just that he should suffer the consequences of his acts.

Applying these principles, therefore, to this case, you will enquire:

1st. Did the defendant possess ordinary skill and treat the injury of the plaintiff with reasonable and ordinary diligence and care? If he did, and in case of doubt use his best judgment, he is not liable, and your verdict should be for the defendant.

If you believe from the evidence that the defendant did not treat the plaintiff's limb with reasonable, ordinary diligence and skill, and with reasonable ordinary care, then he is liable for all damages necessarily resulting from such improper treatment.

If you believe from the evidence that whatever injury the plaintiff has sustained has been the result of the severe injury originally received, and not the result of negligent, unskillful or improper treatment, then your verdict should be for the defendant.

Another branch of this case is presented by the pleadings and evidence, namely—an alleged settlement and release or receipt.

Where two parties have mutual unsettled dealings or are asserting and in good faith making claim to debts or demands, each against the other, and they each execute to the other a release or a receipt in full, the execution of such release or receipt on the part of one is a sufficient consideration to uphold the release or receipt on the part of the other surrendering a claim which is asserted in good faith against the other, and which the other is in some risk of having to pay, is a sufficient consideration, and it is not necessary to prove that it could have been successfully prosecuted. In this case if the parties agreed to a full settlement of all their claims, a release by one was a sufficient consideration for a release by the other.

A written receipt is sometimes open to explanation by parol evidence.

When parties make what they intend for a final settlement, it sometimes happens that an item of account is omitted by both parties by mistake, so that although both parties intended to include their entire dealings, and believed they had done so, yet there is an item that was not in fact settled. It is permissible notwithstanding the language of the receipts, in a proper case, to show the mistake. But if it is true that both parties thought of the item which is said to be omitted, it was the duty of him who claims it to have attended to the matter at the time, and if he does not it is his own fault, and he cannot introduce parol evidence to vary the import of the language of the receipt.

There can be no such thing allowed and considered by you as a condition of the receipt or release, thought of and agreed to at the time, but not expressed in the writing.

If no fraud or mistake has been proved, the parties must be taken to have used in the writings the very words they intended to use to express their agreements, and to have made the contract which the written words import.

That is, the writing must be taken as containing the very words the parties intend to use, to express what was agreed to at the time and all the conditions of the agreement.

Fraud will not be presumed, but must be established by proof. The burthen of proof is on the plaintiff to establish fraud. If it has been proved that the defendant practiced deception upon the plaintiff and by that means obtained the receipt, the receipt is of no value. Such fraudulent practice must be proved by satisfactory evidence. The receipt cannot be avoided on the ground that Dr. Poppleton apprehended danger of an action. He was not bound to state that he feared an action. It would be no fraud or deception for him to remain silent as to his reasons for wanting the receipt. If the jury believe that the receipt was fairly or honestly obtained, and Williams, the plaintiff, suspected, when asked for the receipt, that defendant [Poppleton] feared an action for malpraxis and desired the receipt on that account, that of itself is decisive of the case.

If you find that such was the case, then the transaction at the time of executing the receipts was a full and final settlement of all that is involved in this action.

You are to decide every question of fact involved in the case, and upon every question you should be governed by the evidence that has been given on the trial.

[The jury retired, and after several hours deliberation returned a verdict of $900 for plaintiff.]

FOREIGN NOTES.

The Montreal Gazette says: "The question of the future, whether we are to be more closely knit to the empire, or altogether independent, or drift into the arms of the great Republic, will best be decided by the course of events." And the same paper further remarks: "No man who has our interest at heart, unless desirous of forcing us prematurely into union with the United States, or blind to the signs of the times, will advocate any further change in our political status now."

Says the New York Herald: In England they are writing that Bismarck is not a statesman, and in Paris they write that Bismarck's power in Germany is on the decline. Bismarck, perhaps, can stand this very well, and will be found a tough customer by those whose who propose to write him down. If he is not a statesman there is no such thing in Europe, and the influence of the man who has brought the German people to [illegible] has their unity and the political supremacy in Europe that this unity gives may be depended upon to outlive a few little dynasties.

The first surveys for telegraph extensions under the Post Office Telegraph acts of 1868 and 1869 are now taking place in Ireland. "Our telegraph line," says the Dublin Times, "are to be connected with the existing wires of the telegraph companies, and the whole is expected to be handed over to the Post Office authorities by the first of January. As much of the extension work as possible will be completed by that date, and the general plans of the different companies amalgamated so that this great system of Post Office telegraphs will, it is believed, eventually embrace in cheap and efficient telegraphic communication every money order office in the United Kingdom."

Sainte-Beuve, the French critic and poet, who recently died, in one of the spasms of agony that preceded dissolution, murmured, "Physicians should have poison for their friends." He meant that the agonies of disease and death should be cut short by the merciful hand of the physician. Recently, in England, some one has proposed that incurable lunatics should be put to death, and in this country, not long since, the agonies of a child dying of hydrophobia were shortened by the administration of poison. Whether the taking of human life under such circumstances is justifiable is a question to be decided with great caution. Such a practice might open the way to terrible abuse.

A contemporary thinks that Fanny Fern is entirely right in assuming that "there is no man who would not rather be shaved by a woman than to have a great lumbering man pawing at his jugular vein, and poking him in the ribs to get up when another man's turn came. I don't say how his wife might like it, but I am very sure he would—and as to his wife, why—she could shave some other man, couldn't she?"

FRESHEST GLEANINGS

The official returns show that the prohibition candidate for Governor in Ohio received just 677 votes in a total of 465,353.

Ka-beeh-co-da-way advertises for a wife in a Minnesota paper. He already has three, but says his "wigwam and heart very big."

Toledo, Ohio, is to have a new hotel, to cost $500,000, $50,000 of which will be donated by the citizens to any one who will erect the building after their plans.

The keeper of a peanut stand in Washington, died recently and left his daughter $60,000. The young lady still attends the stand, which is a great attraction to the young gentlemen of the capital.

The New Orleans Times grows eloquent over the "unpretending and unmolested return of Jefferson Davis, Esq., to his native country," and remarks that in almost any other land he "would have been persecuted for his opinions."

Mr. Charles Lanman has nearly ready for the press a volume of "Imaginary Letters," supposed to have been written by all sorts of people from beggars and boors up to aristocrats and authors—in which, while endeavoring to entertain his readers, he proposes to deal with the facts of every-day life.

An Indiana paper reports that a young woman committed suicide near Lagrange, in that State, recently, by swallowing nearly the entire contents of an eight ounce bottle of corrosive sublimate. It says, as may well be supposed, that her agony was terrible, and it adds that the girl's mother has become insane.

When General Wool was seized with the illness which terminated with his death, he remarked that this would be his last sickness. "Oh, no, General," exclaimed one of his attendants; "you will recover and be with us many a day yet." "No," said the General; "this is the last flickering of a lamp that has long been burning."

The New York Post comes out strongly against an elective judiciary. It claims that after a fair trial of twenty-three years in that State, there has been a progressive change in the character of the bench; its dignity has been lowered, its ability has decreased, the respect paid to its judgments both at home and abroad has steadily fallen.

We observe that a Connecticut inventor has patented a head-rest attachment for a church pews, intended to support the head of the worshiper, when so inclined. The contrivance can be detached at pleasure. Dull preachers, if there are any, will receive the news of this new aid to piety with just alarm. The spectacle of shelf after shelf going up, and sleepy heads going down, in the middle of the discourse, might well appall the stoutest heart and [illegible] the most eloquent tongue.

Under the head, "The Milk in the Cocoanut," the New York Herald has the following in regard to the result of the election in that State: "The Morgan men of the interior, it appears, in retaliation gave some of the obnoxious Fenton men directly concerned a quiet stab under the fifth rib, with the remark of the slayer Abner, one of King David's fighting favorites, 'Art thou in health, my brother?' And so the Republicans have lost the Legislature as the price [illegible] paid by the Morgan faction for the election of Fenton to and the ousting of Morgan from the national Senate."

George K. Stone, head of the firm through whom it is alleged "President Grant bought Government bonds on a margin of four per cent., and sold out to Jay Gould on a handsome profit," writes to the New York Tribune stating that "Stone Nichols & Co. have never made a transaction of any kind or nature in which they had any reason to believe or suppose that General Grant, either as an individual or as President of the United States, had any direct or indirect interest." When will the angry gold bulls cease their abortive efforts to gore the President, in revenge for his thwarting their plans?

Citizens of Newburyport, (Mass.), one evening recently, heard a heavy firing,—quite a cannonade, in their town, and were much excited thereat, but were relieved from their apprehensions when they learned that a resident of Salisbury thus celebrated his acquittal, at a Court in Lawrence, of a charge of bigamy, which was preferred against him by a worthy maiden lady, who resided in the same house with him, and who felt scandalized at his bringing home a new wife in the place of one who had deserted him, she not being aware that he had previously obtained a divorce.

A Madison dispatch of Nov. 8th, to the Chicago Tribune says: "Further returns show that the Senate will stand twenty Republicans and thirteen Democrats, and the Assembly will have about ten Republican majority. The decrease of the Republican majority in both Houses is mainly owing to independent candidates and bolters, caused by quarrels among Republicans. In the Twenty-eighth Senatorial District we lose a Republican Senator from this cause, this district being strongly Republican. In the north part of the State there is a general gain for the State ticket. Fairchild's majority will not fall short of 10,000." Oregon Herald copy.

OREGON.

A few nights ago a thief entered the cellar of John Wasters of Jacksonville and stole four hundred dollars in coin. No clue to the perpetrator of the theft.

The grand jury of Polk county has failed to find any bill against the parties under arrest in the case of Jenny Boyce, whose sudden death caused so much suspicion and excitement about last summer.

Thomas H. Owens, Deputy Sheriff of Jackson county, has been indicted by the grand jury for assault with a dangerous weapon. This is a case spoken of in a letter from Jackson county which we published a few days ago.

An Albany dispatch of the 17th inst. gives the following: The cylinder head of the engine in Beach & Monteith's flouring mills at Albany was blown out to-day. No one was injured. The principal loss will be occasioned by the stoppage of the machinery.

In reply to a partisan writer in the Albany Democrat, who accused Senator Williams of giving Southern Oregon the "go-by" in his railroad speech at Roseburg, the Ensign of that place says the speech was clear and explicit and all who heard it were well satisfied.

The Statesman has positive assurance that men of means and experience stand ready to erect gas works in Salem if the City Council will give them the right for a period of time sufficient to justify the enterprise. The Council meets this week and the proposition will be submitted to it. We hope to see action.

The Polk county Times says that a large panther attacked and killed a tame deer at the residence of Mr. Blake, on the upper Luckiamute the other night. The deer when attacked, sought refuge in the porch of the house, where the struggle was heard by the inmates, but too late to rescue the unfortunate pet.

The Statesman says Dr. Carpenter, the other day, performed the delicate operation of tieing the femoral artery, in the case of Mr. A. Harvey, troubled with an aneurism of that artery on the right thigh, caused by injury from a pistol shot nine years ago. Harvey is doing well and as a consequence will probably regain the use of his limb, which has been seriously affected for many months.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV 1- 1869

A Plea for 'Bed Rock' Principles

We believe the Democratic journals of Oregon being without exception to the 'bed rock' species. They would have their party continue its policy of opposition to the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, to civil rights for the [illegible], to suffrage for the negro, to the principles of the reconstruction acts and to the payment of the national debt in the only way it can be paid—that is, in coin. On all these points they take issue both with the Republicans and with those soft shell Democrats who are disposed to put [illegible] quarrelling over the past and take a new departure. A long article appears in the Portland Times in which 'bed rock' principles are reaffirmed and those Democrats who are inclined to take a forward step, treated to a severe castigation. It says the worst foes the Democratic party has had to encounter during the past ten years have been of its own household, and continues in this strain:

> Self-instituted leaders have placed themselves prominently in front for the apparent purpose of proving treacherous at the hour of direst need. Who can forget how the hopes of the Democracy were raised in 1862, when Horatio Seymour was elected Governor of New York on the volunteered pledge that, if elected, no more military arrests should be made, and how those hopes were dashed to the ground when they saw him not only false to the pledge so given, by aiding and supporting the military tyranny at Washington to the full extent of his official power? Who can forget how, after becoming reconciled to his nomination for President in 1868, only as the choice between two evils, the Democracy were at last betrayed by his organ and the organ of the bondholders—the New York World—on the eve of election when it produced confusion in the ranks by urging the withdrawal of Blair, whose Broadhead letter only saved the party from the most overwhelming defeat? It is such grandees as Seymour and such traitors as Marble that alone disconcert and defeat the Democracy. Are Seymour and Marble Democrats? They both favored the nomination of Chase at Tammany Hall last Fourth of July but one. Is Chase a Democrat? If he is, then there are more than two millions of men who call themselves such in the United States who are not. If Seymour and Marble endorse Chase's politics, if they deem it policy to acquiesce in all the spurious Radical legislation of the last ten years; if they favor the payment of the swindling bonded debt, why, in God's name, don't they train with the Radical party, with which they are in sympathy? Why do they persist in claiming to be Democrats when they know that the great mass of the party is as a unit against these dogmas? Is it solely to produce discord and division? We fear this surmise is too well founded.

In this phillippic we have a truthful delineation of what Brick Pomeroy calls "hard-pan Democracy." Seymour is condemned for not openly and actively taking sides with the rebels after he was elected Governor of New York in 1862. Again, he and all who agree with him that the legislation of the last ten years cannot be disturbed, that the amendments to the Constitution cannot be overridden, that the colored people of the country cannot be deprived of the rights which have been bestowed on them, and that reconstruction cannot be overthrown,—in short who agree that anything at all has been settled by the war or since its close, are condemned as unfit to be called Democrats. Further, all who hold that the national debt must be paid and that repudiation is not to be thought of or tolerated, are no better than the most infamous Radicals, and should find their political affiliations with that party. This is the substance and meaning of the Times' declarations, and we have no doubt that paper is quite correct when it asserts that the larger portion of its party hold the same views. It maintains that in the last Presidential campaign Blair's revolutionary letter was the only thing that "gave hope and confidence to the party." That is to say, the party, though it did not like Seymour, supported the ticket through a hope that the rebellion which Blair promised might somehow be inaugurated. We quote another paragraph:

> Now we insist it is high time that the Democratic party found out where it stood. It has been playing the game of "good Lord, good devil" long enough. Its rank and file are becoming disgusted with such tomfoolery as the nomination of Seymours and Chases and the adoption of exploded Abolition platforms. The bugle henceforward must give forth a certain sound or we are lost. And we appeal to the Democracy of Oregon, when they shall next assemble in State Convention, to adopt a platform of such an unequivocal character that such Democrats (?) as Seymour, Chase and Marble will have to silence their abolition and bondholding twaddle, or else come out as open enemies.

We hope by all means that this advice to the Democrats of Oregon will be accepted and followed. Give us a genuine Democratic platform next year, based on the doctrines indicated by the Times, and then we shall have a fair fight between the parties. Then there will be no danger of mistaking the issues. Then the people will know precisely what the Democratic party proposes to do, a thing which is now quite difficult to ascertain. If a bold, outspoken policy, such as the "bed-rock" organs demand, will ensure the final ascendancy of their party in the conduct of public affairs, Republicans will yield without a murmur. Only let the issue which such papers as the Times would make, be presented without evasion or disguise, and every Republican will be content to abide the result.

If the policy which the Times urges its party in this State to adopt be a manifestation of courage, it is admirable, if an exhibition of perverse obstinacy, it is lamentable, if a factious warfare against the established preponderance of wiser aims and a better statesmanship, it is rendered simply contemptible by the inflexible course of events and the unchangeable results of one of the mightiest revolutions in the history of the world.

The Herald and other papers of its class are now deeply engaged in figuring "astonishing Democratic gains" out of the late elections. This is very suitable employment for them, as their time is by no means valuable. The fact relative to these elections, however simply is that the Republicans this year have fully held their own, carrying every State which was decidedly Republican last year. Such a result as this, on a short vote, is quite unusual. Grant's excellent administration has carried the Republicans safely through.

Politics this year are everywhere a little mixed. An instance of it is seen in the vote of Hull, one of the small towns of Massachusetts. That town gave 12 votes for Claflin and 16 for Adams for Governor and then on the Representative vote gave 24 for prohibition and 4 for license. Thus Hull voted by a majority of 4 to sustain Adams and license, and by a majority of 20 to adhere to prohibition. There have been many such anomalies in the elections this year.

Mr William L. Adams, we are informed has written a letter from the East to a person in this State, in which he complains that the OREGONIAN has tried to impair his influence at the East. We are at a loss to know what he bases such a complaint upon. We are not aware of having published anything calculated to have such an effect. Obliquity of vision appears to be one of Mr Adams' misfortunes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A special Washington dispatch says heavy frauds have just been discovered in the Paymaster's Department of the army, involving losses to the extent of $100,000.

It is stated that Jeff Davis does not intend to settle in America. He merely proceeded to Mississippi to settle his private affairs, and will soon join his family in London.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—It is stated that the trouble between the Erie managers and McHenry of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad, has been brought to a pacific termination. It is now agreed that the Erie shall pay at the rate of $16,000,000, inclusive of the lease and contract, to the Atlantic and Great Western, and the necessary documents were probably signed yesterday. The proceedings at law have been abandoned on both sides.

General Spinner was reported better yesterday.

It was reported at the rooms of the Cuban Junta yesterday that the British Minister at Washington has been instructed by his Government to transmit by telegraph to the authorities of the British West India Islands to allow vessels bearing the Cuban flag to enter their ports and remain unmolested for 24 hours in accordance with international custom.

Application was made to the authorities yesterday for a detail of policemen to guard the Spanish gunboats at Delmater's yard. Ships say they have an organized plan for the destruction of the muskets and fleet by fire.

The Post estimates that new State Constitution has been defeated by 50,000 majority; the negro suffrage clause by 25,000 majority. There is some chance for the Judiciary clause, but its adoption is not probable.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Times considers the effect the Suez Canal will have on British interests. It says: We are aware that in Paris and Florence, and even at St. Petersburg, there is great exultation at the notion that by the opening of the canal the central trade may be turned into new channels and a heavy blow dealt to the nation which made the most of the old ones. We will not allow ourselves to be discomposed by their illiberal prognostications. It was not the English who first sailed around Africa or made settlements in India. No better favor is needed at Port Said than the free competition which awaited us at the Cape of Good Hope.

The money article of the Times, to-day, referring to the movement of American bonds to Europe, observes that it is necessary to recollect that people liable for debt are apt to complain of its burden, forgetting the benefit it brought them. The annual yearly payment made to foreigners is a more dangerous element of unpopularity than would otherwise be in case the liabilities were at home.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—The Government announces its intention of reforming the laws controlling the public press.

PORT SAID, Nov. 17.—To day was devoted to religious ceremonies in connection with the opening of the canal. A solemn blessing was given by Pere Bancles, almoner of the Empress Eugenie. He dwelt in terms of lively gratification on the liberty of worship which had been granted to Christians, and and thanked the Empress for the sympathy she had shown, and to Lesseps for the exertions he had made to bring the work to completion. He also returned thanks to all other illustrious personages who honored the occasion with their presence. The Emperor of Austria, Empress Eugenie, Princess of Prussia and Holland, Viceroy of Egypt and many foreign envoys assisted at the ceremonies. The multitude of spectators was immense and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested.

PARIS, Nov 16.—The Journal Des Debats says that Queen Isabella has definitely abdicated the throne of Spain.

Le [illegible] says everything is [illegible] to Spain now with the Republic because the Republicans are insufficient. The Monarchy is alike impossible, because no party is strong enough to appoint a king. Unless a coup de etat or a victorious revolution occur, Spain will probably remain provisionally an irregular Republic under the name of Monarchy.

MADRID, Nov 16.—The disposal of the Republican prisoners taken during the late insurrection, is inclined to clemency, but at the same time they will be careful not to endanger the future peace of the country by a mistaken clemency. Last & Co have completed another tunnel on a lower level to their quartz ledges and find it from six to eight feet thick and richer than any taken out at the upper tunnel. It appears there was no felonious attempt.

The loss of the bridge over Clackamas river which was just approaching completion is quite a serious blow to the progress of the railroad, but it will not prove disastrous. It will necessitate still more energy and outlay in order to build the first section of the road within the proposed time, but Mr Holladay is not a man to be checked by such a misfortune. The energy which has for several weeks been so manifest in the construction of the road will be redoubled, and every obstacle will be overcome.

We are somewhat surprised to see the Salem Statesman take serious notice of some absurd charges which have been made against Superintendent Meacham by an almost unknown sheet published in this city. Such attention is what the said sheet has long been angling for and it has been whining repeatedly because it has not heretofore obtained it. We have perceived all along that it has been smarting under neglect. To be let alone so utterly is the most cruel punishment it could receive.

From Camp Harney.—The following letter [illegible] from Dr Wm C McKay Camp [illegible] Treaty Grounds Nov 10th has been kindly placed at our disposal.

"Dear Sir—As I promised I drop a line to let you hear of our doings in this part of the world. We came here two weeks ago to meet the Snake and Piute Indians who were to have been collected by the military by the end of October but we found very few of them here, they were very loth to come to the Council and most of them have come with the determination to fight. We have used all kinds of means to persuade them that we are working for their benefit. All they can say is that they love their country and are determined to live here and [illegible]. We have held three days council with them and this is the only result thus far. The [illegible] of the Harney Lake, Malheur River and Crooked river, and his Indians have decided that they will not go to the new Agency. My opinion is that they will have to be coerced consequently we may fear another Indian war. Talk of their being subdued! They are ready at any time to break out into hostilities. A war is a good opportunity. The military [illegible] in their way they are somewhat good [illegible]. The council is now deferred [illegible] a few days till the arrival of old [illegible], the [illegible] head chief of the Piutes [illegible] is good [illegible] by all the Snakes and Piutes as their [illegible]. The old rascal is a cunning old fellow. He was [illegible] a few days before the council met, but left [illegible] that he had special business calls to [illegible] Gen. Otis, commanding the district at Camp [illegible] yesterday an express messenger after [illegible]. He is expected in about a week. Then he [illegible] whether they will go or not. But our council has been a total failure. One of the most influential chiefs, Ochoyo, has declared in open council his [illegible] to accept the good advice which has been given him, and will go right home to-morrow [illegible] where his people live. He and his people [illegible] our Government wagons, in charge of [illegible]. He commands about 250 people. He is the [illegible] with whom Gen Crooks had a big fight at [illegible] of Pitt river. He is now our friend and submits [illegible]. As he has great influence it is to be [illegible] assistance, we may be able to win [illegible] savages who roam [illegible] and who to a great extent retard its settlement [illegible]

Yours [illegible] and in haste,

WM. C McKAY

[illegible] We find the following in the Advocate [illegible] religious interest at the Harbor [illegible] M. E. [illegible] The Ladies Sewing Circle of the M E Church will meet on [illegible] afternoon next, with Mrs T. Carter, [illegible] Mr J. Kenneth, on 4th street. As [illegible] balance are to be considered it is especially [illegible] that all the members and friends of the So[illegible] on that occasion.

Roberts was appointed to address [illegible] on Tuesday next, on the subject of pulpit [illegible] how to make our sermons more effective [illegible]

[illegible] Bridge Carried Away.—During all [illegible] the week, the Clackamas river rose rap[illegible] effect of the heavy rain fall in the moun[illegible] [illegible] were felt, however, for the [illegible] bridge, which was in course of erec[illegible] on Wednesday. During that night the [illegible] rapidly than ever, and great quantities of [illegible] rain. Just before morning the truss work [illegible] the bridge was built and supported in the cen[illegible] raft of drift wood and, torn away, [illegible] quite completed, the supporting tim[illegible] put in place, and of course, when the [illegible] away, the bridge fell and went [illegible] also damaged somewhat, the [illegible] displacing some of the top [illegible] the heavy drift knocked down [illegible]. The extent of damage to the piers [illegible] definitely until the water shall fall [illegible] of the bridge floated down to near [illegible] Island, where they were secured, and [illegible] used in rebuilding. We are not [illegible] the amount of damage. The delay which [illegible] the construction of the road will be [illegible] the loss. We understand that [illegible] go on as rapidly as possible under the [illegible]

We [illegible] from the limited time allowed [illegible] through an investigation as we [illegible]. We found that some repairs were not [illegible]. These are [illegible] involving several intricate questions of law as to the title to certain real property in this city.

Their escape was attended with much difficulty.

Clothes Line Fastener.—This ingenious contrivance for [illegible] wash day has met with such favor that the agents Messrs Street & Boyston have contracted with one of our city founders to get enough to fill present orders. Orders left at Start's Tin Shop Front street, will be filled as promptly as possible.

MESSRS EVERSON & HAINES General Agents New England Mutual Life Insurance Company Boston

Gentlemen.—On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children I beg to thank you and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston for its munificence in paying me my terminated policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January, 1869 misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non-payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only) thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. I sincerely thank you again gentlemen for the payment and also for your generous and gentlemanly assistance in the matter

Respectfully BETSEY MILLER

PORTLAND OREGON Nov 15 1869

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston

Gentlemen.—Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family, left by an old resident of this city who died Aug 2 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public

A. E. O Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No 13 054, bearing date January 21 1863. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2 1869, over eighteen months after last payment of premium yet your company working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts pays the widow and orphans the whole policy deducting only the premium due; while in all other companies doing business here about which we know anything the policy would long since have been forfeited

By the New England Mutual the widow has been paid $4 050 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity this is Mutuality. We therefore, commend this company to the public as the only company that has no forfeitures

We herewith enclose you the acknowledgments of the widow

Respectfully yours etc

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, Nov. 19, 1869

The latest quotation of gold is 127½.

San Francisco legal tender rates 78¼. Portland rates 78@1[illegible]½.

Money is in moderate supply. There is enough for ordinary business requirements, though interior bills are yet much behind. Navigation having been resumed to the upper towns on the Willamette, produce begins to move freely, and it is expected the country merchants will very soon be able to square up accounts. Rates for thirty to ninety day loans at the banks, one per cent; outside rates, 1½@2 per cent.

The produce market remains in a very unsatisfactory condition. Prices of grain and flour are too low everywhere abroad to afford any margin for profit to the exporter, and consequently the growers are unable to sell in this market any considerable quantities. A few of the more forehanded farmers have shipped abroad on their own account, but in the majority of cases this is impracticable, and so much of that coming forward goes into store, to await a better demand, the millers being about the only parties who are now shipping to San Francisco. There is a declining tendency in bacon and lard. Just at present hams are quite as low as sides, the latter being in temporary better demand. We see by the reports of the Commercial Herald that the supply of barreled and smoked meats is very light at San Francisco—all the old stock of Eastern about used up, while the receipts from Oregon and local packers barely sufficed for the current trade wants. The same authority states that "butter, on the contrary, is in light stock and prices hardening. Cheese is also in favor, while lard meets with good inquiry at full prices. Overland, we are in receipt of a few small invoices of sugar-cured bacon and hams from Chicago, which have found buyers at extreme figures. At this date, the Pacific dairy supply is very meagre, and for fresh roll butter high prices rule. Chicago eggs by rail are not in favor, those from Oregon having a decided preference. We think the Chicago egg trade is about 'played out'—too much shaking over the rails." The partial supply of the San Francisco market from Chicago has, doubtless, had the effect to cut off, correspondingly, the demand for the Oregon article. The San Francisco fruit market is reported glutted and prices hardly sufficient to pay transportation charges. It is expected that prices for oats will be better soon, the supplies of both California and Oregon being short.

Our produce exports from Jan. 1st to Nov. 5th, were, flour, qr. sks, 432,603; wheat, sks 30,061; oats, sks 55,82[illegible]; barley, sks 249; salmon, bbls 1,837, hlf bbls 2,350, cs 10,729, pkgs 2,074; bacon, pkgs 4,485; beef, bbls 440; butter, pkgs 779; cheese, pkgs 12; hams, pkgs 433; lard, pkgs 1,512; pork, bbls 1,1[illegible]; apples, pkgs, 4,159.

The trade of the past week has been rather light—perhaps less than that of any week during the fall. Most of the interior stocks for winter were laid in early in the [illegible], leaving our [illegible] merchants but little to do beyond filling orders to supply broken assortments.

Real [illegible]—[illegible] are a little less lively, though [illegible] sales are by no means of uncommon occurrence.

The steamship Ajax sails this evening for San Francisco, taking a full cargo, mostly flour, on manufacturers' account.

The New York market for flour and wheat is firm at the old figures. At Liverpool, wheat is down to 9s 10d, the lowest figure quoted for many weeks.

San Francisco quotations, by telegraph, are—Wheat, $1 20@1 56; flour, superfine, $4 12½@4 37½; extra, $4 25@[illegible] 50; barley, $1@1 10; oats, $1 20@1 50.

The [illegible] flouring mills are reported stopped by an accident to the machinery—a cylinder head having been blown out on Wednesday.

We are sorry to have to record a serious interruption to the rapid progress of the Oregon Central railroad—the loss of the nearly completed bridge across Clackamas river, by flood. We learn, however, that the contractors will, if the stage of water will permit, rebuild at once, employing the [illegible], and that track-laying will be continued with all possible dispatch.

HOAGLAND'S NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

FORM OF PROPOSAL, GUARANTEE, AND CERTIFICATE.

Proposal.

The undersigned ——, whose post office address is ——, county of ——, State of ——, proposes to convey the mails of the United States from July 1, 1870, to June 30, 1874, on route No. ——, between —— and ——, under the advertisement of the Postmaster General, dated September 3[illegible], 1869, with "celerity, certainty, and security," for the annual sum of —— dollars.

This proposal is made with full knowledge of the distance of the route, the weight of the mail to be carried, and all other particulars in reference to the route and service, and also after careful examination of the laws and instructions attached to the advertisement.

Dated (Signed.)

Guarantee.

The undersigned, residing at ——, State of ——, undertake that, if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No. —— be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July, 1870, enter into the required obligation or contract to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.

This we do, understanding distinctly the obligations and liabilities assumed by guarantors under the 27th section of the act of Congress of July 2, 1836.

Dated (Signed by two guarantors.)

Certificate.

The undersigned, postmaster at ——, State of ——, certifies, under his oath of office, that he is acquainted with the above guarantors, and knows them to be men of property, and able to make good their guarantee.

Dated (Signed.)

Cal, Oregon, and Wash ——.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS AND POSTMASTERS;

Containing also conditions to be incorporated in the contracts to the extent the Department may deem proper.

1. Seven minutes are allowed to each intermediate office, when not otherwise specified, for assorting the mails; but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is sufficient for an exchange of the mail pouches.

2. On railroad and steamboat lines, and other routes where the mode of conveyance admits of it, the special agents of the Post Office Department, also post office blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without extra charge.

3. On railroad and steamboat lines the route agents of the Department, also the British and Canada mails, when offered, and the agents accompanying them, are conveyed without charge; and for the use of the United States agents a commodious car, or part of a car, properly lighted, warmed, and furnished, and adapted to the convenient separation and due security of the mails, is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

Railroad and steamboat companies are required to take the mail from, and deliver it into, the postoffices at the beginning and end of their routes, and to and from all offices not more than eighty rods from a station or landing. Proposals may be submitted by the company for the performance of all other side service—that is, for offices over eighty rods from a station or landing.

There will be "way bills" prepared by postmasters or other agents of the Department, to accompany the mails conveyed on railroads and steamers, specifying the number and destination of the several bags. On other principal routes, likewise, receipts will be required and way bills forwarded; the latter to be examined by the several postmasters, to insure regularity in the delivery of mails.

4. No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip will be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. For repeated delinquencies of the kind herein specified, enlarged penalties, proportioned to the nature thereof, and the importance of the mail, may be made.

5. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers, or for being concerned in setting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter's pay may be deducted.

6. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or deliver it into a postoffice; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a coach, car, or steamboat on a route.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws or disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department to do so; for running an express as aforesaid; or for transporting persons or packages conveying mailable matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases, and particularly to make them conform to connections with railroads, without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. The Postmaster General may also discontinue or curtail the service, in whole or in part, in order to place on the route superior service, or whenever the public interests, in his judgment, shall require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause, he allowing as full indemnity to contractors one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the amount of service retained and continued.

9. Payments will be made by collections from or drafts on postmasters, or otherwise, after the expiration of each quarter—say in November, February, May and August.

10. The distances are given according to the best information, but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied are correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on this point, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of the roads, hills, streams, &c., and all toll bridges, ferries, or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. No claim for additional pay, based on such ground, can be considered, nor for alleged mistakes or misapprehension as to the degree of service, nor for bridges destroyed, ferries discontinued, or other obstructions increasing distance or expense, occurring during the contract term. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay if the distance be not increased.

11. Bidders are cautioned to mail their proposals in time to reach the Department by the day and hour named, (3 p. m. March 1, 1870), for bids received after that time will not be considered in competition with a bid of reasonable amount received in time. Neither can bids be considered which are without the guarantee required by law and a certificate of the sufficiency of such guarantee.

12. Bidders should first propose for service strictly according to the advertisement, and then, if they desire, separately for different service; and if the regular bid be the lowest offered for the advertised service, the other propositions may be considered.

13. [illegible] for two or more routes [illegible] will not be considered.

14. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the name and residence of the bidder, [illegible] address, and those of each member [illegible].

15. Bidders are requested to use, as far as practicable, the printed proposals furnished by the Department, to write out in full the sum of their bids, and to retain copies of them.

Altered bids should not be submitted; nor should bids once submitted be withdrawn. No withdrawal of a bid, or of guarantee, will be allowed unless the withdrawal is dated and received before the last day for receiving proposals.

Each bid must be guaranteed by two responsible persons. The bid and guarantee should be signed plainly with the full name of each person.

The Department reserves the right to reject any bid which may be deemed extravagant, and also to disregard the bids of failing contractors and bidders. (Act of July 2, 1836, section 24.)

16. The bid should be sealed, superscribed "Mail Proposals, State of Oregon," and addressed "[illegible] Second Assistant Postmaster General, Contract Office," and sent by mail, not by or to an agent; and postmasters will not enclose proposals [illegible].

17. The contracts are to be executed and returned to the Department by or before the 1st day of July, 1870, but the service must be begun on that day, or on the day [illegible] in which the contract is to be executed [illegible].

18. [illegible] of interest in contracts [illegible] cannot be allowed. Bidders will therefore take notice that they will be expected to perform the service accepted to them through the whole term of the contract.

19. Postmasters at offices [illegible] near railroads, but more than eighty rods from a station, will, [illegible] after the [illegible] of March [illegible], report their exact distance, [illegible] the Postmaster [illegible] supply from the list of [illegible].

20. Section [illegible] of the act of Congress approved [illegible] provides that contracts for the transportation of the mail shall be let, "in every case, to the lowest bidder tendering sufficient guarantees for faithful performance, without other reference to the mode of such transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty and security of such transportation." [illegible] that propose [illegible] celerity, certainty, and security, [illegible] legal bids, are considered, [illegible] however large, [illegible] necessary to [illegible] celerity, certainty, and security," and [illegible] no others are considered.

21. [illegible] of a bid in any of its terms [illegible] and cannot be [illegible] with regular competition. [illegible] guarantee and certificate, is the only [illegible].

22. Postmasters are to be careful not to certify the sufficiency of guarantors or sureties, without knowing that they are persons of sufficient responsibility; [illegible] this subjecting [illegible].

All bidders, guarantors, and sureties are distinctly notified that on a failure to enter into or perform the contracts for the service proposed for in the accepted bids, their legal liabilities will be enforced against them.

23. Present contractors, and persons known to the Department must, equally with others, procure guarantors and certificate of their sufficiency [illegible] to the form above prescribed. The certificate of sufficiency must be signed by a postmaster or by a judge [illegible]. No other will be admitted.

Postmaster General.

Labor Party in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—The National Reform party has nominated Nathaniel E. Chase, stove dealer, for Mayor.

Tremendous Gale in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18th.—The gale yesterday was wide spread and unprecedented. The train on the Harlem Railroad was blown from the track on Boston Corners, and the presses and smoking cars and two passenger coaches hurled from the bank a distance of seventy-two feet. The baggage car was burned with the mail matter. Casualties, however, are less disastrous than the condition of the cars would indicate. A boy named McBride, living at America, was killed and partially burned. Bird S. Curtis, of Catskill, had his scalp torn off and was severely injured about about the head and breast. His recovery is doubtful. Chester Goodale and wife, of South Elmout, Mass., were hurt about the body and head. The latter, an old lady, was bruised about the head and body. Her recovery is doubtful. Miss F. A. Parsons, of America, was cut about the head and face. James Halstead, of Mount Riga, was injured in the face and hands. Wm Van Vleet, brakeman, is considerably jammed. The location of the accident was twice before the scene of like catastrophes.

Result of the New York Election.

The official vote of the State of New York gives Nelson, Secretary of State, 20,253 over Sigel, and Allen, Comptroller, 25,841 over Greeley.

Georgia State Fair

MACON, GA., Nov. 18th.—It is estimated that 15,000 persons are on the Fair grounds to-day. Wade Hampton delivered an address which was enthusiastically cheered. Col. Parsons, of the Agricultural Bureau, addressed the people. Gen Hampton counselled the cultivation of more practical relations with freedmen, and wanted their moral and intellectual status improved.

Gale at Mobile.

MOBILE, Nov. 18th.—This city was visited by a gale doing considerable damage. The roof of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad freight depot was blown off and several negroes badly hurt. One white man was killed.

A New Army Society.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 18.—The society of Cavalry of the West, met at the Galt House to-day, General Wilson presiding. Maj. Hoza, of Cincinnati, was designated Historian, and members are requested to furnish him with all materials within reach for his use in compiling a history of the society. General James H. Wilson was chosen president of the society for the ensuing year with seven Vice Presidents. Recording Secretary, S. V. Shipman.

Society of Army of Tennessee.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 19.—Gen. Noyes delivered the annual address before the Society of Army of the Tennessee to-day. It was quite long, but was received with rapturous applause. General Parker pronounced an eulogy on Gen. Rawlins. Resolutions were adopted requesting Congress to appropriate his salary for the unexpired term for the education of his children. In the evening the members of the Army and the Society of the Cavalry of the West partook of a sumptuous banquet at the Galt House. There were the usual toasts, speeches, etc.

Indian Disturbances.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Official information is received from Gov. Campbell of an Indian raid in the vicinity of Fort Fetterman on the night of the 28th October. The Indians killed two soldiers on a hunting expedition. A third soldier escaped. It is believed they belong to Red Cloud's band, of the Sioux, supposed to be led by John Richards, late Indian trader at the Fort, who recently murdered a soldier and escaped to the Indians. A company of cavalry was sent in pursuit, but were unable to overtake the Sioux. Richards is a quarter-breed Sioux and a man of some education and prominence, and is a very dangerous character to lead a war party. It is feared the Sioux are bent on war. It is said they are indignant at the settlement of the Sweetwater country, and Wind River Valley being set off as a reservation for the Snakes.

Capt. Randall, commanding at Fort Sully, informs the Indian Office that all annuities, goods and clothing for the Indians at Cheyenne Agency, were destroyed.

R. M. Corwin, counsel for the Government in the matter of the Farragut-Porter prize and bounty cases, filed a general demurrer, which raises a question of the right of the Navy to claim any prize or bounty for captures made at New Orleans; also the question whether the Court can entertain jurisdiction in these cases as far as Government is concerned.

Gen. Twiggs' Swords—Butler's New Orleans Administration.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Sun to-morrow will contain the following, which is understood to be on authority: The Twiggs' swords, which Gen. Butler has been sued for by a young woman who is a neice of Gen. Twiggs were, in 1862, sent to officers of the United States and now in the Treasury. (That's rather mixed.—ED. The silver plate mentioned as appropriated by Butler, was turned over to the Quartermaster and sold under Banks' administration. The money has gone into the Treasury. Butler was applied to to use his influence to have Twiggs' swords returned, and was told he was to be sued if he did not. He refused to interfere, and suit is brought and published for political effect. The whole story in regard to the swords, is told in Parton's New Orleans, page 467. The swords and a box of silver were found under the wing of the house of this woman, who was said, at the time, to be Twiggs' mistress.

Disasters on the Lakes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A large number of disasters, in many cases attended with loss of life, is reported from the lakes. A great many vessels were foundered or driven ashore. The schooner Arrow grounded on a reef twelve miles north of here on Tuesday night. The crew clung to the wreck all day all night and all day Wednesday, but were washed off Wednesday night. A life boat started to their assistance, but was unable to reach the vessel and compelled to return. The crew of the boat narrowly escaped destruction. Another life boat swamped 20 feet from the vessel and one of the crew drowned. The others succeeded in swimming ashore. The entire crew of the schooner, 8 in number, were drowned.

The Wabash Avenue Rink fell in last night and was totally destroyed. The fall was occasioned by a great pressure of snow on the roof.

Reports of disasters on the lake continue to be received hourly. The storm was very extensive. It has been heard from as far west as Cheyenne and as far east as the coast of Maine.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—A special says arrangements are being made to erect a monument to Peabody.

The Times says the recent election cost the Tammany ring $500,000. Last one cost $120,000. Mayor Hall contributed one fifth of his salary. Eight candidates twice contributed $5,000 each, all the subordinates under their control being taxed 20 per cent on salaries.

Judge Barnard has refused to send the case of the Erie railroad company against Commodore Vanderbilt to a jury for trial, and the case has been set for trial at the special term, November 29th. NEVADA

TREASURE CITY, Nov. 20.—Lieut. Wheeler's expedition to Colorado returned night before last, after making a complete survey of the Territory lying between the latitude of White Pine and Colorado, and included between the 114th and 116th degrees of longitude. The expedition visited sixteen mining districts and traversed one hundred and twenty three valleys. Eight Mormon settlements have been encountered during the trip whose people number from one to six hundred. Most of the valleys are long and narrow, showing only limited areas for cultivation. Paharanagat Valley shows the greatest amount of agricultural land. Timber of large size is found only at rare intervals. Opposite the mouth of Virgin river seems to be the only point where a practicable route can be made on a direct line to the section of Arizona in the vicinity of Prescott.

ELKO, Nov. 20.—Whitney & Co., to-day, shipped fifty thousand and Earl & Co. forty thousand pounds of merchandise to White Pine. Edor & Co. received four hundred bars of lead bullion, weighing 30,000 pounds, from the White Pine smelting works; also shipped a large mill from the Risdon Iron Works, San Francisco, to Hot Creek, Nevada.

A party just in from the Wyoming mining district, (a new district on Crystal Creek back of Bruno City,) brings encouraging accounts from the mines in that section. The smallest assay from any mine there, is three hundred and eighty dollars silver, and twelve dollars gold per ton. Plenty of wood and water for mining purposes.

Jewish Reform Convention.

CONFERENCE OF RABBIS IN PHILADELPHIA—PROPOSED REFORMS IN JEWISH WORSHIP—THE MOSAIC SACRIFICES TO BE ABANDONED AS PAST ISSUES—THE HEBREW LANGUAGE TO BE GIVEN UP—THE DOCTRINE OF BODILY RESURRECTION DENIED.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3, 1869.

Eleven Rabbis from the principal cities of the United States advocating reform met in conference to-day, in reference to the call issued by the Rev. Drs. Adler and Einhorn, at the house of the Rev. Dr. S. Hirsch, Rabbi of the reform congregation of this city. The meeting was called to order by Dr. Hirsch and on motion of Rev. Dr. Einhorn the following officers were unanimously elected: Rev. Dr. Hirsch, as President; Dr. Adler, of New York, Vice President; Dr. Mielziner, of New York, and Dr. Felsenthal, of Chicago, as Secretaries. Drs. Einhorn, Kohler, Hirsch and others submitted propositions on the principles of public worship, marital laws, circumcision, the institution of the Sabbath, religious instruction, etc. The conference decided to consider the principles of public worship first, and as a basis the propositions submitted by Dr. Einhorn. After a lengthy discussion the following resolutions were adopted:

The Rabbinical conference declares that Judaism in its present phase of development [illegible] the following principles to be embodied in public worship.

First—The Messianic aim of Israel is not the restoration of the old Jewish state under a son of David, the renewed separation from the nations, but the union of all men as children of God in the confession of the one and only God, of the unity of all rational beings and their vocation for moral purity.

Second—We do not regard the destruction of the Jewish State as a punishment for the sins of Israel, but as a corollary of the Divine purpose expressed in the promise to Abraham, and more clearly developed in the course of history; to send the members of the Jewish race to all parts of the earth in order to accomplish their high priestly mission; to lead the nations to the true knowledge and worship of God.

Third—The Aaronic priesthood and the Mosaic sacrificial worship were only preparatory steps to Israel's national priesthood, actually beginning with the dispersion of the Jewish people, and to the sacrifice of the [illegible] devotion and [illegible] sanctification as alone pleasing to God. These institutions, therefore designed to prepare a higher state of religious sentiment, are altogether numbered with the destruction of the [illegible] temple, among the things of the past and in this only—i. e., in their educational capacity—may be mentioned in our prayers.

Fourth—Every distinction between Aaronity and non-Aaronity with reference to religious privileges and duties is therefore inadmissible in public worship as well as in practical life.

Fifth—The [illegible] of Israel as a religious people as bearer of the highest idea of humanity must now, as ever, be emphatically expressed, and on that very account shall the world embracing mission of Israel and the equal love of God towards all his children be just as distinctly emphasized.

Sixth—The belief in a bodily resurrection has no religious foundation, and only the [illegible] spiritual existence is to be expressed [illegible]

Seventh—However urgently and unremittingly desirable as the fulfillment of a sacred duty the cultivation of the Hebrew language, in which the Divine treasures of revelation are stored, and the immortal monuments of a literature [illegible] all civilized nations are preserved in our [illegible], yet since that language has become generally unintelligible to the larger majority of our co-religionists, it must yield on this very account in our prayer, which [illegible] body to the [illegible] as far as the existing circumstances render it advisable.

Second Day.

PROPOSED MODIFICATION OF THE RABBINICAL MARRIAGE LAWS—AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF THE EQUITY OF WOMEN WITH MEN—DIVORCE BY THE CHURCH TO BE ABOLISHED.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4, 1869.

The Convention has received an addition in the arrival of Rev. Isaac M. Wise, of Cincinnati, and Dr. M. Schlesinger, of Albany. The [illegible] was opened at 10 o'clock A. M. All the members seemed to be animated by the sincere [illegible] to make the best use of time, to make as [illegible] as possible, and to advance the [illegible] of reform by decided improvements. The reforms in Jewish marital laws were considered this morning and again the propositions of the Rev. Dr. Einhorn taken as a basis. The preamble starts with the premise that although Judaism always recognized the sanctity of matrimonial union, yet in its legal determinations [illegible] with slaves and minors. It is, therefore, evident, that reformed Judaism will effect such reforms as to bring the higher position which woman occupies in modern society in accord with the religious institutions. The first resolution passed reads as follows:

In the marriage ceremony the bride shall no longer occupy a passive position, but a mutual avowal shall be made by the groom as well as by the bride, by the pronunciation of the same formula and by an exchange of rings.

Some members opposed the innovation of introducing the exchange of rings. Since marriage was but a strictly civil act, the ring was a mere symbol, and therefore useless. The mover, however, contended that though the words spoken completed legally the bond of wedlock, yet the ring, while used as a symbol, should be tendered by the bride to her future husband as well as by the latter to the former. It is a demonstration that Judaism recognizes the full equality of woman with man as a moral being, that the avowal is mutual and that the duties of a man towards his wife are as sacred as those of the wife towards her husband. The resolution was finally adopted.

The second resolution gave rise to an animated and even excited debate, and was finally passed in the following form:

The marriage formula shall be, "be wedded unto me, as husband, respectively as wife, according to the law of God."

Propositions three, four and five were adopted without debate and read as follows:

3. The benediction until now in use is to be replaced by one which fully expresses the moral elevation of the married state and emphasizes the biblical idea of the fusion of man and woman into one personality and the Divine prohibition of illegal intercourse.

4. Polygamy is in direct opposition to the idea of marriage. The marriage of a man with a second wife can be as little valid therefore and as little claim the sanction of ecclesiastical authorities as the marriage of a woman already married with another man is to be considered null and void.

The fourth resolution must in so far be explained that heretofore a woman who was married to a man who is proved to have a wife living had to be divorced by the rabbinical authorities before she could marry again.

5. The priestly marriage laws, which presuppose the higher sanctity of the Aaronites, have lost, since the [illegible] of the Temple and the extinction of the sacrificial worship, all validity, and are no longer to be respected.

The next question was the validity of divorce by the civil authorities and the position of religion in regard to it. The following is the first resolution passed:

Divorce is, on Mosaical rabbinical grounds, only a civil act, and never was a religious function. It therefore must be recognized solely as an act emanating from a judicial authority of the State. The so-called Ritual [illegible] Jewish letter of divorce is therefore in all cases declared ineffectual.

"Fetch em on. I'll have one to blow de bellows for me," was the pithy reply of a colored blacksmith in an Ohio town to the remark that the Chinese would flood this country with cheap labor. This is one of the brightest comments on our Chinese puzzle that we've seen yet. As they come in to do the work at the bottom of the ladder all the rest will have a chance to get pushed up one round higher.

An order issued by Secretary Robeson, announcing the death of Admiral Stewart, says: "His name is most intimately connected with the earliest glory of the navy, and his deeds have been and will remain bright examples for the study and emulation of all its officers."

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 22, 1869

An Easy Method in Argument

One way to deal with troublesome and ugly facts is to flatly deny them. This method is both short and convenient, and may be used in desperate cases where nothing else will do. Of course the more formidable the opposing facts, the more bitter and persistent must be the denial. Big words and round oaths are a necessary part of the proceeding, and if all these weapons be plied with vigor some show of opposition may be kept up where, otherwise, the logic of facts would carry the day without question.

It would appear that this is the principle on which the opponents of the administration have determined to proceed in order to disprove the published statements relative to the reduction of the public debt. To get rid of the galling fact that the debt is diminishing they resolutely deny it. Of late all their journals, beginning with the New York World and running down the list even so low as to the Oregon Herald, have been publishing vehement denials of the statement that the debt is diminishing in the way shown by the Secretary of the Treasury. Some of them put the denial in one shape and some in another. The Herald, following the Chicago Times, has it thus:

> "When Secretary Boutwell buys a million of dollars in bonds, he deducts the amount from the public debt. He then chucks those bonds into the Treasury, calls them funds on hand, and again deducts them from the debt."

From this it is argued that the debt is not diminishing at all, and that the monthly financial presentations are a sham. There is a way of dealing with this assertion which is almost as short as the favorite Democratic method of denial, and a good deal more conclusive.

The exhibits show that the amount of the bonds bearing interest in gold is now as large as in March last, in fact slightly larger. Here is the statement:

	March 1.	Nov. 1.
Five-twenties	$1,602,587,350	$1,602,669,900
Other gold bonds	505,266,700	505,266,900
Total	$2,107,854,050	$2,107,936,800

Now Boutwell has been buying bonds steadily for months; yet his statement for November shows a slight increase in the bonded debt since March. It is therefore not true that when he "buys a million dollars in bonds he deducts the amount from the debt." He simply places these bonds to the account of the sinking fund, while they still stand in the exhibits as a portion of the indebtedness of the country. In this way he has bought up more than sixty-four million dollars in bonds, which he now has on hand. He has no authority to cancel them. Hence they appear as a part of the statement every month. But as they actually belong to the Government, the debt is, of course, virtually decreased by the amount they represent. The Secretary in his periodical exhibits, after stating the whole amount of the debt, including the bonds which have been purchased for the sinking fund, then deducts the sinking fund just as he deducts the cash on hand. Thus, his statement for November reads:

Debt Bearing Interest in gold		$2,107,936,800
Debt Bearing Interest in Lawful Money		61,640,000
Matured Debt		4,350,956
Debt Bearing no Interest		421,880,220
Interest Accrued		53,307,736
Total debt, Principal and Interest to date		$2,649,654,742
Amount of Cash in Treasury	$104,243,006
Sinking Fund	64,280,747
		$168,523,753
Total Debt less cash in Treasury and sinking fund		$2,481,130,989

Hence we see that the Herald's statement that the Secretary "when he buys bonds deducts them from the debt, chucks them into the Treasury, calls them funds on hand and deducts them again," is entirely false. He does not deduct them in the first instance at all, and in the second he simply combines them with the cash on hand, as both belong to the Government, and gives the aggregate of the debt less the sinking fund and cash in the Treasury. Could the Secretary destroy the bonds purchased for the sinking fund, the five-twenties, instead of standing in the regular monthly exhibits as $1,602,669,900, would show the sum of $1,538,389,153.

The busy attempts of the opposition press to falsify the monthly statements of the Secretary show that these journals, perceiving how strongly the present administration of our national affairs is commending itself to the people, have become alarmed, and are determined if possible, to outface truth with their persistent denials. We are inclined to think they will not make much by fighting facts which it is impossible to disprove.

Liquor Laws in Politics.

In all the recent elections the prohibitionists took a hand. And they have made a showing which ought to satisfy them that by trying to force such an issue in politics they damage their own cause. Even in Massachusetts they have lost the Legislature. In New York, because they could not force the Republican party to the position they demanded, they were indifferent in the canvass, and the result is that a Democratic Legislature is chosen which will sweep away every vestige of temperance, Legislation, enacted heretofore by Republicans, and give free course to the tide of free rum. The Albany Journal says "it is the impressive example over again of the dog who lost the bone he had, in order to obtain a visionary and illusive one."

The New York Times, in discussing this general question, observes that the policy of the prohibitionists has been at once grasping, inconsiderate and short-sighted. They have clamored everywhere to have the single issue—and that a moral one which they present, raised above the great fundamental political principles on which the two great parties of the country are organized. They have not even been content to take from these parties a general declaration of sympathy with any movement for true temperance, allowing every member of the party to exercise his own discretion as to the proper means for the progress of temperance. They have sought, rather, to commit political Conventions to the support of their extreme measures, to allow no latitude of judgment; to read out of the ranks any person, no matter how hard a worker and honest a thinker on all other questions, whose ideas on this subject did not square with their own. A man in favor of the strictest sort of license law was to be anathematized. And, in demanding these things, under all sorts of threats of "bolting" and opposing, the prohibitionists have never minced their words. By one of those curious contrasts we often see in politics, the special advocates of so-called "temperance" have furnished the most "frightful examples" of in-temperance in language and conduct.

The result has been thus far, that many people have violently opposed the prohibition movement, who, had it ran another form, would have suffered it to have taken its chances. It has secured the hatred of many who cannot submit to see all other interests sacrificed to this. That it should gradually have lost ground, even in Massachusetts, which would naturally give it something of a welcome and support, is not wonderful when the persistency of its assumptions is considered.

If the friends of the temperance issue have learned wisdom by experience, they will hereafter content themselves with less than they have been accustomed to demand. Instead of trying to force the question on parties formed for different purposes, and instead of trying to break up those parties by reason of their unwillingness to have that dogma introduced as an article of general party faith, they will seek simply to throw their influence in behalf of friends of temperance in local elections, choosing, as between any two candidates, the one whom they consider to be the best man.

In General.

The Herald the other day informed its readers that the Democrats probably have a majority in the Illinois constitutional convention. Chicago papers of the 8th inst give the names of all the delegates elected, and the list stands forty-five Republicans to forty Democrats. The Herald better try again.

Mr. William L. Adams has sent us a copy of his lecture on Oregon, delivered in Tremont Temple, Boston, in October. It is somewhat long, extending through forty large printed pages, but is throughout quite entertaining. It abounds in those peculiarities of expression and illustration for which Mr. Adams is well known in Oregon, and we can easily believe that it produced quite a sensation among a Boston audience. His descriptive passages are good, and the whole is characterized by a rapid and forcible style.

There is nothing like keeping up with the times. Commend us, therefore, to that lively journal, the Salem Press, which congratulates its party on the probability that the Fifteenth Amendment will be defeated, because "it takes but the rejection of ten States to defeat it, and we may reasonably count on New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Ohio and California." Now as New York and Alabama have already ratified it, and as Ohio has elected a Republican Legislature which will do the same, the fossil of the Press seems to be a little "out" in his calculations.

The ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment by Alabama increases the number of ratifying States to twenty-two. Six more affirmative votes are necessary. These are to be obtained from Rhode Island, Ohio, Iowa, Minnesota, Texas and Mississippi. The first four of the States named have recently chosen Republican Legislatures, so that their affirmative action is certain. The last two are required to ratify it as a condition of readmission. Besides, there is Nebraska, whose Legislature, it is understood, will be convened in special session to ratify the article in case any one of the before mentioned States should fail to act affirmatively upon it. What do the organs of the Bourbon Democracy of Oregon think of the chances of defeating the amendment now?

OREGON.

Since January last the Clerk of Linn county has issued sixty-seven marriage licenses.

The Statesman says the river has backed up the water so as to interfere with the Salem Mills, and put a stop to work entirely.

An Indian woman in Benton county applied for a divorce from a white husband last week, alleging his marital infidelity. Her application was denied.

The Oregon City paper pronounces "All hail to the approach of the Iron Horse!" and for once forgets to utter its maledictions against the Chinese, whose labor has contributed so much to this result.

The Albany Register learns that the citizens of Scio are agitating the matter of establishing a newspaper in their town. What do they want with a newspaper? Why not continue the good old custom of assembling at Bascom's once a week and having Brick Pomeroy's Democrat read to them?

From the Farmer: Mr. Mallory expresses a determination to proceed at once to make the necessary preparations for erecting a three story brick on the site occupied by the old Capital, the second and third stories of which are to be used as a hotel. Other parties are "talking" of erecting a large hotel on Commercial street, near the W. W. Mfg. Co.'s store.

A correspondent of the Statesman treats of the comparative durability of several kinds of Oregon wood for fence posts. He thinks cedar the most durable, more so than yew. This does not agree with the experience of many others, who have found yew posts almost indestructible. We are told that there are yew posts at Oregon City which have been planted more than twenty-five years, and are still apparently as sound as ever.

The person who "does" the "Pacific Slope Brevities" for the San Francisco Bulletin states "the OREGONIAN clamors for a tariff on articles of Eastern manufacture brought to this coast." We want it understood that this is a distinction we are not ambitious to obtain. We merely said that the "Knights of the Horny Hand" and the Democratic papers of Oregon, to be consistent with their principles, should clamor for such a tariff in order to keep back articles of manufacture from the East, which are produced there by cheap labor.

From the Albany Democrat: By a private note from Monroe, Benton county, we are informed of a case of domestic scandal which is creating considerable gossip in that usually quiet village. It seems that a disciple of Esculapeus—Dr Roberts—the father of four children and the wife of an estimable and lovely wife, has for some time had an unaccountable yearning for the companionship of the wife of Mr. Samuel Hoover, a gentleman residing in that vicinity. The Doctor's yearning was dittoed by Mrs. H. (who was the mother of two children), and the intimacy has at last culminated in the flight for parts unknown of the criminal pair.

The Statesman of Sunday says: Ben. Holladay, Esq., and I. R. Moores, President of the O. C. R. R. Co., returned from Albany last evening, having been there to meet Jesse Applegate, of the Umpqua, and T. R. Brooks, Chief Engineer. These gentlemen are exploring a new route through the Calapooia Mountains, called the Rock Creek Pass, to the west of Cartwright's. This route, if found practicable, will materially shorten the line of road to the Umpqua. From the commencement, Mr. Applegate has manifested great interest in the location of this road in the most favorable manner, and his long acquaintance with the country enables him to render valuable assistance.

A late Washington dispatch says: It now seems probable that the difference existing between line and staff in the Navy about their respective rank will be amicably settled without an appeal to Congress, as was threatened. It was the intention of Secretary Robeson to organize a Board of Naval Officers to settle the points at issue between the two classes of officers, the Board to be composed of the different Bureaus of the Navy Department, three of whom belong to the line and three to the staff. But some of the representatives of the staff have submitted to the Secretary their grievances, and the Secretary has intimated that the compromise will be easily effected, the details of which he will submit to Congress in his forthcoming report.

A thief recently robbed a house at Austin, Nevada, of a lot of blankets. Notice is given through the papers that the blankets belong to a pest house, and have been used by small pox patients. Cheering intelligence for the thief!

FRESHEST GLEANINGS

When the women's rights women do get their rights they will make things "howl," if we are to judge by the titles they chose for their papers. Their organ in New York is called the Revolution, and one soon to be started at Crawfordsville, Indiana, is to be named the Avenger.

The Norfolk (Va.) Journal says that the year ending September 1st, 1869, there reached that city from the interior 121,363 bushels of peanuts which sold at an average of $2 75 (currency) per bushel, making a total value of $1,264,250. A million and a quarter dollars worth of peanuts raised in one vicinity! It seems an immense sum for so trifling a thing. What becomes of them?

Suits have been entered at St. Louis by Louis C. Garnett and several others against F. A. Dick, Provost Marshal of that Department during the war under Gen. Halleck, for certain sums assessed against them as rebels and collected by Dick under Halleck's order. It is probable that about one hundred similar suits will be brought at least one of which will be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

A letter from Mexico states that, on the 9th ultimo, 200 men, women and children were crushed to death by the falling of a silver mine, just bought by the families. The following day 16 women, 6 children and 12 men were drowned in the river Marreuto. They had sat down on the bank to rest before undertaking to ford the river, swollen by rains, when the bank suddenly slid off into the stream, and every one perished.

The Omaha Herald, of November 4th, publishes the list of subscribers to the projected grand hotel in that city. It includes the names of ninety three individuals or firms, each down for one hundred dollars each, which is the most stock any one party is allowed to secure. This limit is in order to prevent the hotel, when built, from passing into the hands of a few, who might attempt the freezing process on the many. This makes $93,000 already subscribed. The amount required for the hotel proper, exclusive of the grounds, is $150,000.

The Cincinnati Commercial, speaking of the Stonewall disaster, says: "A sense of security is felt when land is in sight, which, as repeated accidents on our Western rivers have proven, is as delusive as the Will-o'-the-wisp that leads the misguided traveller into the bog. If experience teaches anything, it is that in event of a disaster, the chances for safety at sea, with land 500 or 1,000 miles away, are quite as favorable as upon our rivers, while the number of accidents on the latter are more [illegible] on the ocean. [illegible] to go from New York to Liverpool than from Cincinnati to New Orleans by river."

THE WEST.

Fourteen persons were killed and twenty-four wounded by the railroad accident in California.

The [illegible] keeps up its lick on the [illegible] notwithstanding the brutal assault on one of its editors recently.

It is stated that the Savings Banks of San Francisco once more show increased deposits, which is a good indication of the improvement of general industry.

The schooner Shooting Star arrived at Port Townsend on the 4th with a cargo of 25,000 codfish from Alaska. Their catch averaged while in good ground 1,200 fish a day.

The Steilacoom Star says that five divorces were granted by the District Court at that place last week. These, we take it, are about one third of the married couples in that vicinity.

S. Garfield, delegate to Congress from Washington Territory, has been in Connecticut recently, delivering lectures on the Pacific coast in general and that Territory in particular.

The editor of the Truckee Tribune was so pestered with duns that they chased him in his dreams, when a benevolent band of serenaders came along and "chased the dream away."

In Monterey county, California, the Chinamen are making money by gathering and shipping to San Francisco, wild mustard seed. Last year, one Chinaman employed ten of his countrymen in the business, and at the close of the season had pocketed a profit of $1,500.

The prospect of the building of a line of railway to connect the Colorado with San Diego has greatly stirred up the people of Arizona. The Prescott Miner, October 23d is filled with accounts of prospecting parties, out in every direction, endeavoring to discover new mines or to develop old ones.

Senator Cole, of California, has written a letter on the Chinese question, which takes the position that we shall not have a large immigration of the Chinese people, as the inducements for it are growing less every day. The first great inducement—rich surface gold diggings—is nearly gone; the next—high wages—is disappearing with the competition among white laborers opened by the railroad.

For Coughs, Colds and Throat Disorders, use "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years. The Troches are highly recommended and prescribed by Physicians. Those exposed to sudden changes should always be supplied with the "Troches" as they give prompt relief.

NEW TO-DAY.

The Miller Insurance Policy.

Some Facts and Figures.

WE, GENERAL AGENTS OF LIFE INSURANCE Companies doing business in this city, have had our attention called to some gross misstatements from the Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, in relation to the settlement of the Policy No. 13,054, which was held by the late A. C. R. Miller in that Company. We do not propose to submit to statements calculated to mislead the public about the operations of standard Companies doing business here, and therefore give the following statement, derived from an official letter written by the Actuary of the New England Life Insurance Company, which clearly proves that the Policy No. 13,054 would have been carried, not only to the date of Mr. Miller's death, but in any first class Company, for years, without any additional payment and that in this instance, the "Massachusetts Lapse Law" had nothing to do with the payment of the claim, and that if Mr. Miller had not had money to his credit in the hands of the Company, in the shape of dividends, which he did not draw at the times they were declared, because the Company failed to apprise him that he had anything to his credit until January, 1869, and he had not paid his premium for 1869 his family would not have been paid the amount of the policy.

Mr. Miller did not, as the public are led to believe, allow his policy to lapse.

When he found that he had a surplus to the Company, which had been accumulating from dividends for several years, he concluded to allow that amount to be applied to the payment of his premiums until it was exhausted.

Condition of Policy 13,054, January 31st, 1869:

Credit.

By dividend in hands of Company for six years.		$241 85
Interest overpaid		25 27
		$267 12
Add dividend for 1869, (estimated)		70 61
Total credit		$341 73

Debit.

To premium due Jan. 21 1869—
Note premium	$61 50
Cash premium	31 50
" int. on notes	30 23
		$120 73
Leaving a balance to his credit at his death, from dividends, of		221 00

Which, with the dividends accruing, would carry a similar policy, in any well established company, for several years without further cash payments.

Basis on which Policy No. 13,054 was settled:

Face of Policy	$5,000 00
Add cash to his credit at time of death	221 00
Total	$5,221 00
Deduct notes given to Company for premiums	570 50
Amount due on Policy at death	$4,650 50

FASHION GOSSIP FROM NEW YORK.—A New York correspondent under date of Oct. 26th, furnishes the following readable comments on the fashions that be and are to be that may be. We like to print these little morceaux ...ally, because they are so interesting to those ... of both sexes who so dote on being a la mode:

"It is hinted that during the winter we shall wear peg-top pants; and stub-toed shoes. With the former "a salutation to your French slope" will once more be en règle; the latter will serve to remind us of better days when the beauty of the American foot was not hidden between the ribs of a shapeless leathern scow, and when the new hat—still a secret—shall have appeared, and long promised collar of comfort, and necktie of ..., and the coat of comely cut, shall have been fairly introduced, what a joyous tribute of sartorial ingenuity will be paid by the men of America! And how they will bless the hatter! And how overwhelm the sensible cordwainer with worthy praise.

On the other hand, the garb of our sisters promises to be as complex this winter as the French modiste can make it. The mysteries of the coming costume have not all been explained. Only enough has been suggested to stimulate the curiosity of the fair ones who seem never weary of novelty in garniture, and who, alas, seem pleased with any fashion however ridiculous. Let us bless what is left of the spirit of modesty, in that she has foiled the attempt of milliners to introduce the Black Crook costume, and to make familiar and dear to us the scanty attire of the actors in that noted spectacle. We have tidings of the high and pointed heel on which our loved ones totter and waddle—it would be folly to call it walking—and such heels as Atalanta never could have run upon. We have also a few lingering locks of yellow hair—"blonde" is the ... name for it—left on the heads of charming creatures to whom Nature gave tresses of black or brown and, with eyelashes to match. We have patches, too, in vogue. And we shall have many more queer whims exhibited before women pass away—for, there is danger that are many days

"Our poets
Shall with satire steeped in gall and vinegar,
Rhyme them to death, as they do rats in Ireland."

RIVER.—The Farmer says: "The Willamette at this point is about fifteen feet above low water mark."

... The greatest number of letters mailed at the Salem ... on any day is 250. The largest number of three ... received in one day by the Postmaster was 1,564.

... The following items are from the Statesman: For several days past the Santiam river has been so high that the ferry boats have not ...d, and so the mails have been irregular. The California papers came along yesterday, but the Albany papers were not on hand as usual. The City Council met on Friday evening, provided for holding a city election, passed a few small accounts and ... while the proposition of Mr. Barrows, of Santa Cruz, California, for supplying gas works for the city, and ... the privilege for ten years to come. This ... was referred to a select committee of four, ... to report to-morrow evening. We understand the Council to be friendly to the measure, but they very properly intend to examine carefully any contract entered of them.

FROM THE EAST TO OREGON.—The Secretary of the Emigrant Aid Association, gives the following table of costs, by rail and steamer from various points in the East, to Portland, Oregon:

By Pacific Railroad to San Francisco, and thence by steamer—

From New York,	highest rates	$198 00
"	lowest "	86 00
Chicago,	highest rates	178 00
"	lowest "	75 00
St. Louis (same as from Chicago)
Omaha,	highest rates	165 00
"	lowest "	60 00
New York to Portland by steamer the entire distance,	highest rates	181 33
"	lowest	82 56

These rates do not include sleeping and eating on the cars during the trip. The cost of such accommodations will vary from $25 to $50 additional.

CITY.—From the Enterprise: On last Wednesday about 5 o'clock, Mr. J. J. Dawson was on one ... of the Railroad bridge across the Clackamas, ... some timber, when his feet were ... in such a way that he was thrown from ... upon the rocks broke his left leg.

... There are to have a public ball on the evening ... of Odd Fellow's Hall in this city, ... 25th, the proceeds of which will be ... defraying the expenses of furnishing the ... will be under the management of a ... by the Lodge, under the supervision of ... it will be wisely conducted, no ... may depend upon having an ... enjoyment. The invitation will be general ... of ample dimensions to accommodate ... attend.

THEATRE.—There was another full house Saturday ... to witness the second performance of ... the ... of Mrs. Bates in the character ... was equal to, if not greater, than that ... evening, when she was applauded beyond ... in this theater. The season for which ... was ... closed with Saturday evening, ... Mrs. Carter will reappear, in the leading ... of Camille, in the great five-act sensation ... " Mr. P. Thayer will also ... chance of the season this evening. The ... the full strength of the company, and will ... the most attractive of the season.

... Mr. J. McHenry lost a watch a few ... at the Occidental saloon. The police were ... of the matter, and Friday night found the ... bar-keeper, a colored man named Carr, ... of it. For some reason or other the ... but a man named Lawless was arrested ... claimed that somebody else put the ... and mentioned among others as ... him, at the time the watch was found ... Ned Percy. Upon this, the latter was arrested ... examined on Saturday before the Recorder ... held them to answer.

HOPS.—At the store of R. G. Sneath, we saw, ... a case of Oregon hops, put up by H. ... & Co., Buena Vista, Polk county. They were in ... pound packages, tight pressed, in paper, and every ... in as good shape as any of the imported article ever ... here. We are glad to note this multiplying evidence that Oregonians are learning how to prepare their ... for market. Wells & Co.'s hops would be a credit to any market.

... OREGON.—The Secretary of the State Agricultural Society has just sent off, says the Farmer, 500 copies of the Statistics of Oregon, to be forwarded to ... Dufur for distribution in the Eastern States, by the Board of Statistics, Immigration and Labor Exchange, at Portland, at the cost of said association. There have now been over 4,000 copies of the 5,000 printed by the Agricultural Society, sent out, and distributed into ... Eastern States.

... MURDER HOMICIDE.—The Herald says. ... were shown a letter yesterday, from Theodore Burmester, dated Boise City, November 14th, to John C. Cartwright, U. S. District Attorney for Oregon, asking him to go up there and defend him against a charge of ... but which, he says, was a case of self defence. ... says he is confined in jail, and the Court refuses to let him out on bail."

EMANCIPATION CELEBRATION.—The colored people of Oregon are making preparations to celebrate the Seventh anniversary of the Emancipation of their race in the United States, on the 1st of January, 1870. The exercises will be held at the Wigwam at Salem. Mr. J. E. ... is announced to deliver an oration. Besides this there will be a poem, music and other interesting exercises.

TRAVEL AMONG THE CASCADE MOUNTAINS.—Mr. S. D. ..., Secretary of the Cascade Road and Bridge Company, reports that during the past season, the following travel ... the bridge at Sandy. Cattle going east, 4,160 head; sheep, 8,730; horses both ways, 307; pack animals both ways, 130; saddle animals both ways, 576; ... both ways, 297.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—On Saturday, a part of a block at corner of Morrison and Tenth streets—100 feet on Morrison and 120 on Tenth—was sold by U. S. Marshal Young ... for the equivalent of about $1,800 coin. Dr. Wilkins was the purchaser, for his father who recently arrived here, and designs becoming a permanent resident.

... WEATHER.—A shower came up just at the "nick of time" on Saturday, to prevent the Plaza matinee by the Military Band. As it was comparatively pleasant again in a few minutes, a considerable crowd collected and waited for the usual musical treat, but the band didn't come, and the crowd finally retired disappointed.

THE AJAX AGROUND.—We learn from a friend at St. Helens, that the steamship Ajax ran aground Friday evening on the sand bar at the lower end of Sauvie's Island, where she remained till 10 o'clock Saturday morning. At that hour she got off and proceeded on her voyage.

TREE SO AFTER ONE ANOTHER.—We notice that the various life insurance Agents of this city are going after the Agents of the New England Co., in a rather waspish manner, on account of certain statements in a correspondence published by the latter, in the papers of this city.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Of W. J. Simmonds, when last heard from, left Hamilton, Sept. 27th, 1869, with a mule train for Arizona. Any information in regard to the whereabouts of said Simmonds will be thankfully received at the Mountaineer office, Dalles, Oregon.

THE RIVER.—Up to last evening, the river was still rising, though not rapidly. A few days of such weather, as that which has prevailed since Thursday, will put a stop, however, to that sort of thing.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Moses Taylor is advertised to sail from this port for San Francisco, on Monday next at 4 o'clock P. M.

AT EAST PORTLAND.—The brig Brewster is unloading railroad iron at East Portland. She will probably be back to this side to-morrow, when she will be ready to receive freight for San Francisco.

FIRE IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY.—We learn that Sam'l Grove's pottery works at Damascus, Clackamas county, were destroyed by fire last week. Loss about $500.

STILL VISIBLE.—We are pleased to see that the lumber hauled to the Plaza for a band stand, is still there.

LOADING.—The bark Webfoot has commenced loading with flour, at the lower wharf.

USE KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP. It washes without rubbing. For sale by Allen & Lewis, Corbitt & McCleay, R. G. Sneath and all retailers.

THE RAILROAD IRON continues to arrive by hundreds of tons. The Webfoot having a locomotive on board is on her way to our city, and everything to facilitate the building of the great Railroad is progressing as well, as those Nonpareil Beaver Suits and those extra Scotch Chinchilla "Roundabouts" are selling at KOHN & FISHEL'S, whose Stock of CLOTHING and GENTS FURNISHING GOODS is the handsomest ever imported to Oregon, and their principle of selling with SMALL PROFITS proves a benefit to the public as well as to themselves. Their Stock of DRY GOODS is positively offered at COST.

The subjoined correspondence sufficiently explains itself:

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 15, 1869.

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston:

Gentlemen:—On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children, I beg to thank you, and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, for its munificence in paying me my terminated policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January, 1861, misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only), thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws, that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. I sincerely thank you again, gentlemen, for the payment, and also for your generous and gentle manly assistance in the matter.

Respectfully, BETSEY MILLER.

PORTLAND, OREGON, Nov 15, 1869.

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston:

Gentlemen:—Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family, left by an old resident of this city, who died Aug. 2, 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public.

A. E. C. Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No. 13,054, bearing date January 21, 1863. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2, 1869, over eighteen months after last payment of premium, yet your company working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts, pays the widow and orphans the whole policy, deducting only the premium due, while in all other companies doing business here, about which we know anything, the policy would long since have been forfeited.

By the New England Mutual, the widow has been paid $4,650 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity, this is Mutuality. We, therefore, commend this company to the public, as the only company that has no forfeitures.

We herewith inclose you the acknowledgments of the widow.

Respectfully yours, etc.

To Messrs. C. Bills, J. Myer, Geo. H. Flanders and M. Sellers:

Gentlemen:—Your favor of yesterday, inclosing "acknowledgments of Mrs Miller," is at hand.

Please accept our thanks for the voluntary justice you have done the company we represent.

Yours Very Truly,

The True Medical Doctrine.

Nature, when struggling with disease, indicates unmistakably the kind of assistance she requires. In cases of nervous weakness and general debility, the feeble pulse, the lack-lustre eye, the attenuated frame, the flaccid muscles, the melancholy visage, inform us as plainly as if each organ had a tongue, that a medicated stimulant is needed. It does not require the aid of a medical education to understand this dumb appeal for new vigor from an exhausted system. Every reader of these lines can comprehend it just as well as the graduate of a physicians' college. Let not this demand of enfeebled nature be neglected. Respond to it promptly by commencing a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation uniting in their highest excellence, the properties of a Stimulant, an Invigorant and an Alterative. Before three days have elapsed from the taking of the first dose, a marked beneficial change will be manifest in the bodily and mental condition of the patient. The pulse will be stronger and more regular, the eye will begin to lose its dull expression, the muscular and nervous systems to recover their tension, and the spirits to improve. Persevere, and a complete revivification of the depressed animal and mental powers is certain. In cases of dyspepsia and biliousness, the same salutary results will be obtained. The appetite will revive, the sallowness of the skin disappear, and all the distressing symptoms which accompany disorders of the stomach and liver will rapidly subside. The cold of winter often intensifies these complaints by checking the perspiratory action, by which so much morbid matter is evaporated through the pores in milder weather, and therefore the BITTERS are especially useful to the dyspeptic and bilious at this season.

The California Railroad Accident.

The following particulars relative to the rail road [illegible] give a somewhat clear er idea of the nature of that terrible affair than was imparted by the telegraphic dispatches.

THE CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT.

The Alameda Valley Railroad has been in operation for several years, but recently came under the management of the Western Pacific Railroad Company. When the track of the latter road was extended to Oakland, there was a piece of track extending from High street station to near San Leandro, a distance of about three miles, that was used in common by all the trains. A man was stationed at High street for the purpose of attending the switch and giving information to the conductors of the trains as they passed up or down. The down train from Haywood was some ten or twelve minutes behind time, and the switch tender, who had been appointed only a few days before, became tired of waiting and anxious to get his breakfast. Saying that he would "be [illegible] if he was going to wait any longer," he went into his house and sat down to the morning meal. A moment after he sat down, a gravel train passed down the road and went off toward Alameda. The switch tender, without getting up to see what train had passed, jumped at the conclusion that it was the Haywood passenger train. The Western Pacific passenger train, composed of six cars, left Oakland on time, the conductor being cautioned by Mr. Towne to look out for the morning train from Haywood, as it would be filled with passengers. He was told not to go on the road from the junction until after the Haywood train had passed. Acting under these instructions, he "slowed down" his train when he came to High street station. The switch man came up and said "Go ahead, it is all right; the other train has passed down." He accordingly gave the signal, and the train moved along.

A DENSE FOG—THE COLLISION.

During the early hours of the morning the sun shown with unusual brilliancy, and the entire valley glowed with beauty, but at half past eight a dense fog-bank drifted in and settled over the face of the valley. So densely thick was this fog that it was impossible to see the train at a greater distance than one hundred yards, and then it appeared like a spectre moving through the air. The Western Pacific train had gained its momentum, and was running at about twenty miles an hour when the Alameda train was seen approaching, not more than one hundred feet away. The engineer on the Alameda train whistled "down brakes," but by the time the signal was borne to the brakemen the two trains came together with a terrible crash, and a scene of chaos was the immediate result. The Western Pacific passenger train was made up as follows: The locomotive and tender, the express and mail car, a baggage car, a smoking car, two ordinary passenger cars, and a sleeping car. The train from Haywood was made up of a locomotive and tender, a freight car a box car, and two passenger cars. Fortunately there were very few passengers on board either train. The Alameda train did not have more than thirty persons, all told, while there were not more than one hundred on the Western Pacific.

THE APPEARANCE OF THE WRECK.

Those who arrived upon the ground within ten minutes of the time of the accident, declare that the scene was appalling, and beyond all powers of description. Both locomotives were thrown from the track, each falling upon the western side, and sinking into the soft mud and water of the marsh at this point. To this fortunate event may be attributable the comparatively small loss of life; for had not the fires been extinguished by the waters, the cars would undoubtedly have caught fire, and then all those who were wedged in the wreck would most probably have perished. The boilers of each locomotive were not burst or broken which was another fortunate circumstance, for had they been, many persons would have been scalded. With the exception of the boiler, however, the locomotives were smashed into splinters and torn into pieces no larger than a parlor stove. The wheels, cylinders, pistons, smoke-stacks, wood-work, etc., were scattered in every direction. The track was thrown from its position, rails were torn up, ties were forced out of their position and thrown some feet in an opposite direction from that in which the locomotive had been thrown. The force with which these things had been thrown about had torn up the ground, and one of the boilers was sunk in the earth a depth of several feet. A heavy piece of timber of one of the locomotives was thrown somewhere near sixty yards away and buried in the soft ground. The baggage and mail cars of the Western Pacific train reared up on end and stood transfixed at an angle of forty-five degrees. The smoking car, and the passenger car immediately behind it, were boxed into one another, or "telescoped"—that is, the smoking car had knocked the end out of the passenger car and ran into it for a distance of forty-four feet, carrying everything before it; and it was in this car that the greater portion of the killed and wounded were. There was only some six or eight feet of space left, and this was filled with seats and human beings, many of whom were crushed into shapeless and almost unrecognizable masses. There had not been a moment for self preservation, for every particle of damage was done within ten seconds from the time of collision. The passengers in the smoking car escaped in comparative safety—none of them being killed, and only a few being injured at all. The silver palace sleeping car, and the passenger car immediately behind it, escaped without injury, and those who were in the sleeping car declare that they felt but a slight shock, such as would be felt by one car bumping against another when stopping at a station. The box car of the Alameda train was thrown backward, the front portion elevated into the air, where it remained almost perpendicular until lowered for the purpose of being removed from the track. Two of the passenger cars of this train were "telescoped" in a manner similar to those of the other train, the forward car being driven backward into the other car about thirty feet.

Secretary Boutwell on Tax Laws.

WASHINGTON, October 31st.—Secretary Boutwell has completed that portion of his annual report which is of a general character. Upon the question of the revision of the Tax laws, it is understood that Boutwell and Commissioner Delano agree that, in view of all the circumstances, it would be advisable in the main to permit the existing Acts of Congress to remain intact, they being satisfied that if let alone and permitted to remain undisturbed, they will not only augment the revenues of the Government in a large degree, but develop numerous matters which will furnish foundation for intelligent and wise legislation hereafter. If, however, a modification of the existing revenue laws shall be deemed politic by Congress, then both the Secretary and Commissioner have made several suggestions, some of which have heretofore been mentioned in these dispatches.

The forthcoming report of the Commissioner of Pensions will show a vast amount of work done. During the past year 37,721 new claims were allowed, amounting to $2,992,773 83. The number of pensioners on the rolls on June 30th, was 185,125, and the amount of military pensions paid during the past fiscal year was $27,092,858 04. During the year 539 new naval claims were allowed, amounting to $51,083 50. The naval roll, on June 30th, embraced 2,838 pensioners, and the aggregate amount of naval pensions paid during the year was $430,016 04. The total amount paid for pensions of all classes, including expenses of disbursements, was $28,433,884 08, an excess, as compared with the preceding year, of $4,411,902 00, which will during the current year probably be increased to $5,000,000. The claims disposed of during the year amounted to 43,713, of which 37,103 were admitted, and 6,605 rejected. There are 63,101 cases yet to be disposed of. Daniel F. Bakeman, the only Revolutionary soldier who was on the pension rolls at the date of the last annual report, pensioned by special Act of Congress, died on the 5th of April. There are 887 Revolutionary widows on the pension rolls. In the bounty land division there were issued during the year ending September 30, 1869, 1,650 land warrants, covering 250,049 acres of the public domain.

THE AMENDMENT.—The ratification by seven more States is needed to make the Fifteenth Amendment a part of the Constitution of the United States. There can be no reasonable doubt that Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio, Rhode Island, Texas, and Mississippi will, this winter, reduce the needed number to one. Nebraska could be counted on with as much certainty as either of these six States, but the regular session of her Legislature does not occur till January, 1871. Alabama will probably ratify, and so, probably, will Georgia. But the question ought not to depend upon any probability, and need not, if the Governor of Nebraska will call together the Legislature of that State. Should he do so, the question will be settled, and, we should think, the people of Nebraska would insist upon going upon the record with an essential vote, and not as a supernumerary. At any rate, as there are but six more States that can be relied upon absolutely to ratify the amendment this winter, and the question may be left uncertain for another year unless the Nebraska Legislature shall be called together, would it not be judicious, even if not a clear public duty, on the part of Governor Butler, to convene an extra session in that State? We trust the subject will receive the consideration due to its importance, and that Nebraska will take to herself the honor of giving the final vote upon the last vexed question that the rebellion has left us.—Chicago Tribune.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use to all [illegible]. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

FORM OF PROPOSAL, GUARANTEE, AND CERTIFICATE.

Proposal.

The undersigned ———, whose post office address is ———, county of ———, State of ———, proposes to convey the mails of the United States from July 1, 1870, to June 30, 1874, on route No. ———, between ——— and ———, under the advertisement of the Postmaster General, dated September [illegible], 1869, with celerity, certainty, and security,* for the annual sum of ——— dollars.

This proposal is made with full knowledge of the distance of the route, the weight of the mail to be carried, and all other particulars in reference to the route and service, and also after careful examination of the laws and instructions attached to this advertisement.

Dated (Signed.)

Guarantee.

The undersigned, residing at ———, State of ———, undertake that, if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No. ——— be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July, 1870, enter into the required obligation or contract to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.

This we do, understanding distinctly the obligations and liabilities assumed by guarantors under the 27th section of the act of Congress of July 2, 1836.

Dated (Signed by two guarantors.)

Certificate.

The undersigned, postmaster at ———, State of ———, certifies, under his oath of office, that he is acquainted with the above guarantors, and knows them to be men of property, and able to make good their guarantee.

Dated (Signed.)

Cal., Oregon, and Wash. ———.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS AND POSTMASTERS.

Containing also conditions to be incorporated in the contracts to the extent the Department may deem proper.

1. Seven minutes are allowed to each intermediate office, when not otherwise specified, for assorting the mails, but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is sufficient for an exchange of the mail pouches.

2. On railroad and steamboat lines, and other routes where the mode of conveyance admits of it, the special agents of the Post Office Department, also post office Blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without extra charge.

3. On railroad and steamboat lines the route agents of the Department, also the British and Canada mails, when offered, and the agents accompanying them, are conveyed without charge; and for the use of the United States agents a commodious car, or part of a car, properly lighted, warmed, and furnished and adapted to the convenient separation and due security of the mails, is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

Railroad and steamboat companies are required to take the mail from, and deliver it into, the postoffices at the beginning and end of their routes, and to and from all offices not more than eighty rods from a station or landing. Proposals may be submitted by the companies for the performance of all other side service, that is, for offices over eighty rods from a station or landing.

There will be "way bills" prepared by postmasters, or other agents of the Department, to accompany the mails conveyed on railroads and steamers, specifying the number and destination of the several bags. On other principal routes, likewise, receipts will be required and way bills forwarded, the latter to be examined by the several postmasters, to insure regularity in the delivery of mails.

4. No pay will be made for trips not performed; and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip will be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. For repeated delinquencies of the kind herein specified, enlarged penalties, proportioned to the nature thereof, and the importance of the mail may be made.

5. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers, or for being concerned in setting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter's pay may be deducted.

6. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or deliver it into a postoffice; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a coach, car, or steamboat on a route.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws, or disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department to do so; for running an express as aforesaid, or for transporting persons or packages conveying mailable matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases, and particularly to make them conform to connections with railroads, without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. The Postmaster General may also discontinue or curtail the service, in whole or in part, in order to place on the route superior service, or whenever the public interests, in his judgment, shall require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause, he allowing as full indemnity to contractor one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the amount of service retained and continued.

9. Payments will be made by collections from, or drafts on, postmasters, or otherwise, after the expiration of each quarter, say in November, February, May and August.

10. The distances are given according to the best information; but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied are correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on this point, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of the roads, hills, streams, &c., and all toll bridges, ferries, or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. No claim for additional pay, based on such ground, can be considered; nor for alleged mistakes or misapprehension as to the degree of service; nor for bridges destroyed, ferries discontinued, or other obstructions increasing distance, occurring during the contract term. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay, if the distance be not increased.

11. Bidders are cautioned to mail their proposals in time to reach the Department by the day and hour named (3 p. m. March 1, 1870), for bids received after that time will not be considered in competition with a bid of reasonable amount received in time. Neither can bids be considered which are without the guarantee required by law and a certificate of the sufficiency of such guarantee.

12. Bids for extended [illegible] service are [illegible] according to the advertisement, and then, if they desire, separately for different service, and if the regular bid is the lowest offered for the advertised service, the other proposition may be considered.

13. There should be but one route bid for in a proposal. Consolidated or combination bids ("proposing one sum for two or more routes") [illegible] will not be considered.

14. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the name and residence of the bidder (that is, his usual post office address), and the name of each member of a firm, where a company offers, should be distinctly stated.

15. Bidders are requested to use, as far as practicable, the printed proposals to be furnished by the Department; to write out in full the sum of their bids and to retain copies of them.

Altered bids should not be submitted; nor should bids once submitted be withdrawn. No withdrawal of a bid or guarantee will be allowed unless the withdrawal is dated and received before the last day for receiving proposals.

Each bid must be guaranteed by two responsible persons. The bid and guarantee should be signed plainly with the full name of each person.

The Department reserves the right to reject any bid which may be deemed extravagant; and also to disregard the bids of failing contractors and bidders.—Act of June 2, 1836, section 24.

16. The bid should be sealed, superscribed "Mail [illegible]
